DETAILED ACTION

Acknowledgment

1. This Office Action is responsive to the Amendment filed on 2/21/2007.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

4. Claims 1-7 and 32 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Jian et al (US 2002/0197970; new art) in view of Khan et al (US 2006/0282489; new art) and Kelley (US 2004/0057503; art of record).

Regarding claims 1-7 and 32, Jian, as shown in figures 1-3, teaches an apparatus for baseband amplitude limiting comprising a first coordinate conversion system (rectangular-to-polar converter: 110; 210; 310), first vector magnitude limiter (120, 115; 215, 220; 360, 315, 320) and a second coordinate conversion system (polar-to-rectangular converter: 125; 225; 325). Jian fails to teach the first and second coordinate conversion systems are made of CORDIC and the first gain device. See Jian: [0009] – [0013] and [0034] – [0041].

However, Khan teaches that the use of CORDIC is to convert between Polar and Cartesian Coordinates and it can be implemented using FPGA, ASIC. See Khan: [0006], [0029], and [0092]. Moreover, Kelly, as shown in figures 1, 3 and 4, teaches the gain device (112) for keeping the amplitude signal path within the satisfying range. See Kelley: [0022]. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the system of Jian by employing the teachings of Khan and Kelly so that to keep the amplitude of the magnitude signal within the satisfying range.

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 21-31 are allowed over prior art of record.

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-7 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

7. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
